SHORT BALLOT, MODERATE VOTE TO SPEED COUNT

With a moderate vote for a non-presidential election year expected in this county, arrangements were being made today to compile and announce election returns rapidly Tuesday night. Four years ago at the last gubernatorial election 57 per cent of the eligible countians voted.

The Gettysburg Times offices will be open election night to compile and announce election returns to the public as rapidly as they are compiled here.

Republican leaders will be at the courthouse to get the returns and will set up a microphone in the commissioners' office with a loud-speaker in the courtroom to announce the district votes as they come in here and also to keep the public posted on voting results in other key states. The loudspeaker system at the court house will be operated in the hallway until a courtroom meeting, scheduled for Tuesday evening is completed.

Expect Quick Count
The Democrats will get the election results at their campaign headquarters on North Washington street.

Election officials predicted that the voting results will come in early Tuesday night because of the short ticket that will speed the count. They admitted that ticket-cutting by members of both parties may slow their work but they remained confident of an "early cleanup" on the count.

The polls will be open from 7 a. m. until 8 p. m. Under state law, court will be in session here to handle any election complications that may be referred to it.

Cumberland township voters will go to the north edge of Gettysburg to cast their votes in the election house that recently was moved from Steinwehr avenue, extended, to the Biglerville road on county farm land. The old site at the south edge of town recently was annexed to the borough.

ACCIDENTS HERE SHOW INCREASE IN LAST MONTH

Accidents on the Adams county highways showed an increase during October, the monthly recapitulation of the activities of the Gettysburg sub-station of state police reveals.

Completed today under the direction of Sgt. W. Kurt Duhrkoff, the "recap" discloses that 22 accidents occurred during the month, five more than during the month of September.

Carelessness and bad manners on the part of drivers continued to be the cause of most of the accidents. Of the 22, six were caused by failure to keep to the right of the highway, five by failure to yield the right of way, four by drivers going too fast for conditions and two occurred because drivers fell asleep at the wheel.

14 Injured
There were 14 persons injured in the accidents and property damage amounted to $6,516. Sergeant Duhrkoff disclosed. The number of injuries and the amount of damage were both less than during September when there were 17 injured and damage totalled $7,100.

The carnage was not as great however as in October 1945, when two persons were killed, 13 injured, and damage totalling $9,457 occurred in 22 accidents.

In the drive to break up the "bad driving habits" of motorists, the state police continued to check the highways with great care, turning in a total of 78 arrests for traffic violations during the month. The officers also made 18 arrests on criminal charges.

Peak On Wednesdays
A total of 186 hours were spent by the policemen on criminal investigations, 1,261 hours on duty including 385 patrols, 249 hours on special assignments and 1,276 hours on station duty. They traveled 18,400 miles by car and 580 miles by motorcycle. Twenty criminal investigations were conducted as were 17 state department investigations and 10 other investigations.

Wednesday proved the day of the week with the most accidents, five, while Tuesday, Thursday and Friday each saw four accidents.

COOPERATIVE TO MEET

The Southern States cooperative is scheduled to hold a meeting in the court room at the court house Tuesday night, beginning at 8 p. m.

Youth Jailed For Damaging Meters

Joseph Milton Reaver, Jr., 19, of Taneytown, arrested at 1:15 a. m. today on a malicious mischief charge for damaging two parking meters on Chambersburg street Saturday night, is in jail in default of a $25 fine and costs assessed by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore.

Police said Reaver smashed the glass in two parking meters Saturday night. Police arrested him from an automobile license number, they said, when he returned to Gettysburg again Sunday night. Officer Kenneth Tawney made the arrest.

THREE ESCAPED YOUTHS CAUGHT BY STATE POLICE

Three 18-year-old youths, one of them from Gettysburg R. 1, who escaped October 31 from the Kis-Lyn Industrial school in Luzerne county, made a mistake Sunday morning when they came out to the open road and walked along the Gettysburg-Harrisburg highway at Clear Springs near Dillsburg.

State Policeman David K. James, of the local substation, driving on a regular patrol, saw the three and recognized Richard Arentz, 18, Gettysburg R. 1, James stopped his car and called to the three to come over and give themselves up, and all three took to their heels. A few minutes later Arentz came back and surrendered to the policeman.

Investigate Theft
Calling in other state policemen and reinforcements, James began a search of the area around Clear Springs and by 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon the other two had been found. The search began at 11:30 o'clock Sunday morning when James first saw the trio.

Arentz had been sent to the Kis-Lyn school on August 18, 1946 on a charge of stealing gasoline from a car. The other two who escaped with him from the industrial school were Sterling E. Hoffman and Joseph Steffansky, both of Hazleton. The trio was returned Sunday afternoon to the Luzerne county establishment.

The capture of the three youths was one of two criminal investigations conducted by the state police here over the week-end. The officers also began a search for a circular saw, valued at $225, stolen from the sawmill of John Mort, Liberty township, sometime between October 27 and November 1. He discovered the loss Friday upon visiting his establishment.

COURTHOUSE IS JAMMED BY GOP AT FINAL RALLY

Speakers at the Adams county Republican rally in the court house Saturday night predicted a sweeping G.O.P. victory in the election Tuesday, but warned against a feeling of over-confidence, and urged every registered Republican to go to the polls and vote.

A crowd which filled the courtroom and overflowed into the hall heard Walter J. Kress, deputy secretary of revenue, veteran of both world wars and former state American Legion commander, declare that the Democratic party is supported by Communists, and that the Republican party is "the one party which stands four-square for Americanism."

"This is a serious campaign," the Johnstown attorney asserted, "a campaign between the Republican party and the party of Jefferson and state's rights and the Constitution, which now stands for those who would overthrow the government."

"Rice On Wrong Ticket"
The danger of Communism, the speaker said, becomes serious "when you see one of the great parties in the position of getting the unanimous support of the Communists." Kress also charged the Democratic administration in Washington with confusion and red tape, particularly in regard to the operations of the War Assets Administration.

After praising the Republican candidates, and lauding the war record of Governor Martin, candidate for U. S. senator, and others on the ticket, Kress said that "Guffey's experiences in the last war were a scandal," and he added "he would be for any president upon whose coat-tails he could ride."

Referring to John S. Rice, Gettysburg, Democratic candidate for governor, Kress said: "Rice is on the wrong ticket. He is not on the ticket that will accomplish the things you and I want done."

Cost of "Distinction"
Other speakers were Congressman Chester H. Gross, York, and State Representative Francis Worley, York Springs. "Adams county never had a chairman of a committee in Congress because you don't leave them there long enough," Congressman Gross said. Speaking of the two Adams county candidates on the Democratic ticket, he said:

"It would bring distinction to Adams county to have a governor and a congressman, but it would also bring the New Deal to Harrisburg and continue the New Deal in Washington. We need an overwhelming victory at the polls Tuesday that will be a mandate to clean up the mess we are in," he continued. "There is a general feeling of resentment. The people feel that they have been 'sold down the river.'"

Representative Worley said that the New Deal had undermined the Constitution in three ways: By its violation of the separation of powers doctrine; by improper powers doctrine; and by violating the fifth amendment relating to due process of law.

"Eyes of State on Adams"
"The executive branch has usurped the powers of the legislative and judicial by setting up boards and commissions, which passed regulations and enforced them without due process of law," he said. "If our Constitution is out of date, then let's amend it, not undermine it, and tear it to shreds."

County Chairman John H. Basehore presided and introduced the candidates. He also called upon J. Frank Slonaker, state committeeman, and Mrs. Esther Hayberger, county vice chairman of the party, to take bows.

"The greatest thing that concerns me is that some of us may feel, during the last few days of the campaign that this is not a real fight. We have heard many predictions of a Republican victory, but we must not be over-confident. We must keep on working. The eyes of the entire state are on Adams county. They are watching to see what we are going to do in the fight for governor. We want to see Adams county stay in the Republican column on all offices."

THEFT IS REPORTED

A flashlight and a radio battery converter were stolen from the automobile of a Mr. Neiderer, Bonneauville, Saturday night, according to a report made to borough police. The thieves broke open the car, the report said. It was parked in the rear of the Trostle appliance store, Chambersburg street.

Model airplane builders, interested in organizing a club in Gettysburg will meet Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock in the Boy Scout room of Troop 78, in the building in the rear of the Catholic rectory, West High street. The group has also invited adults interested in model plane building to attend the meeting. It is open to all model plane builders.

FOUR ARRESTS ON GAME LAW VIOLATIONS

Game Protector Leo Bushman today reported the arrest of one man for possession of game over the legal limit, a New York hunter was arrested for hunting on a resident's license, one boy was nabbed for hunting before 9 a. m. on Friday and one man was arrested for having more than three shells in a pump gun. He refused to reveal the names, stating all had paid fines.

The season has been so far one of the most successful in the history of the county, Bushman added. The number of hunters, Bushman said, was larger than at any time since before the war.

More than 5,000 Adams countians hold licenses this year.

Use Plane on Hunting Trip
Kenneth and Rodney Taylor, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor, Biglerville, took the family Aerona on a flight Saturday to Lancaster, and shot their first rabbit just as they walked off the Lancaster airport property. After hunting for awhile they loaded themselves and the game into the plane and flew home to the Gettysburg airport. Kenneth is the pilot, having 42 hours of flight while Rodney has three hours of training and expects to become a licensed pilot in the near future.

While the Taylors and others were pressing their planes into service as aerial hunters, most of the 5,000, which is estimated to include 1,000 women, were scouring the local woods and fields for the game which according to reports is plentiful in the county this season.

The hunters for the most part were abiding by the rules with only a few in violation.

628 ENROLL IN CONCERT GROUP; SELECT ARTISTS

The Gettysburg Concert association achieved a second all-time record membership enrollment when 628 members joined the association for the 1946-47 season, it was announced at the close of the membership campaign Saturday night.

With the largest enrollment since the organization of the association several years ago the directors and the committee on selections contracted for one of the most popular and well-known concert groups on the touring circuit for one of the three concerts here this winter.

The concerts this year will include Mac Morgan, well-known baritone; the Trapp Family Singers and Henri Temianka, internationally-known violinist.

Sunday Concert
An innovation will be introduced this year by the association when it will present the Trapp Family Singers on Sunday evening, February 2, in the Majestic theatre at 8:30 o'clock, after the close of all Sunday evening services in Gettysburg.

Mac Morgan is scheduled to give his concert in Brua Chapel on Wednesday, December 4, and Henri Temianka will give his violin concert on Monday evening, March 24, also in Brua Chapel.

Local music lovers are enthusiastic about the concert selections this year, especially with the forthcoming appearance of the Trapp Family Singers.

All of the dates for the three concerts are tentative although the association has been almost definitely assured of their confirmation, which will be announced in a few days.

Thanks Workers
Mrs. Robert H. Derck, membership chairman, today expressed her appreciation and thanks to the volunteer workers who successfully achieved the near-record enrollment for this year.

"The volunteer workers are to be congratulated for their efforts in behalf of the association. They devoted much of their time last week to the association's membership drive and the enrollment of 628 members is an obvious indication of their fine work. I want to thank, on behalf of the association and myself, each worker who contributed so generously of his time and effort toward this project," Mrs. Derck said.

Fine Two Countians For Disorderliness

Richard Currens, 28, of Orrtanna, was fined $5 and costs by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore Saturday night on a disorderly conduct charge following his arrest by Borough Police Officers Charles W. Culp, Jr., and Albert L. Wolford. John E. Currens, 60, of Orrtanna, also arrested for disorderly conduct, was fined $3 and costs.

PRESBYTERIANS SEEK $4,579.32

Approximately 30 men and women of the Gettysburg Presbyterian church began today their canvass of that congregation in the campaign to raise $4,579.32, the local church's quota in the $27,000,000 Restoration Fund of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. Restoration Sunday was observed in the local church yesterday when the pastor, the Rev. Robert M. Hunt, delivered a special sermon on that theme. In the evening the canvassers met at the church to get supplies and instructions and to hear the Rev. David J. Spratt, director of the Restoration fund campaign in the Pennsylvania Synod.

Attorney Donald M. Swope is chairman of the Restoration Fund committee in the local congregation and Miss Edith Carbaugh is the treasurer. Every effort is being made to finish the drive this week. Other members of the committee are Herbert Hamme, John B. Keith, Willis Beidler, Edmund W. Thomas, Mrs. Walter Africa, E. Donald Scott and Mrs. Harold Pegg.

The Sunday school, computing its quota on the same basis as that used in calculating that for the entire church, has pledged $197.40 to the campaign.

The canvassers are accepting cash and pledges which will be payable by the end of the campaign early in 1948. The money is to be used for relief and rehabilitation work in Europe, rehabilitation and reconstruction in Asia and the Pacific islands and in this country in ministering to new communities, rural church rehabilitation and ministry to minority racial groups. The work of chaplains yet with the armed forces, camp and church activities in this country, the board of pensions of the church and 41 Presbyterian colleges in the country are to share in the fund.

"Prowler" Annoys Two Local Women

A "prowler" who is alleged to have approached two Gettysburg women on Steinwehr avenue Friday night as the women were returning to their homes from the movies, and reports of a man exposing himself indecently on South Washington street and Steinwehr avenue Saturday and Sunday nights, were under investigation by borough police.

The Friday night "prowler" did not "lay hands" on either of the women, police said, but made obscene suggestions to them. Police reported that they scoured the section of the town from which these complaints came, but were unable to find the man.

RICHARD CODORI WINS DISTRICT 'CYCLING' TITLE

Richard Codori, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard "Bud" Codori, North Stratton street, is the champion bicycle rider of the Black Walnut Boy Scout district.

Scout Codori won that title Saturday afternoon in the district competition for the title when he piled up a total of 52 points in a contest on Springs avenue between Reynolds and Howard avenues.

A member of the Gettysburg Catholic troop, Troop 78, Codori had six more points than the scout finishing in second place, Joseph Staub, also a member of Troop 78. William Hykes of Arendtsville's Troop 70 won third honors among the 13 scouts taking part. Those participating in Saturday's contest were the first three place winners in four Troop contests held the previous Saturday.

Medals for Contestants

An article of scout equipment will be presented to young Codori at the next District court of honor for the success in the competition in bicycling. Five gold medals and five silver medals will also be awarded at that court of honor to the winners of first and second places in the troop contests a week ago. Five gold medals are being given because of a tie for first place at Arendtsville and five second place badges are being awarded because of a tie for second place in the Troop 78 contest. The medals are to be donated by the Bicycle Institute of America, according to Scout District Commissioner Jack Cessna who had charge of the big contests.

First event Saturday was a rigid inspection of the bicycles of all participating scouts. Sixty-seven errors were chalked up against the scouts in the 26-point inspection.

Precision Ride Difficult

Twelve of the men lost points on the inspection of the chain which was supposed to be clean, lubricated and at proper tension. Some were found to have rust spots on them, some were gummy and some loose. Seven of the bikes were found to have errors in the adjustment of the cones. Some were described by the judges as so tight the wheels came to jerky stop when spun and some were so loose the wheels had a play of from 1/8- to 3/4-inch on each side.

Every bicycle was found to have

Election Officials Keep Posts This Year

Adams county election officials who were elected last year for two-year terms, will carry over into 1947, because no provision was made this year for election of such officials. A petition asking that they be continued in office after January 1, 1947, "until their successors can be elected or appointed" was filed by the county board of elections, through its attorney, Eugene V. Bullett, and approved Saturday by Judge W. C. Sheely.

The election officials heretofore have been elected every two years. It was recently discovered that the state constitution provides for their election each year. The approval of the petition was asked to remedy the situation here. Terms of the present election officials would have expired December 31.

State Policeman Receives Promotion

Clarence F. Tempke, a member of the local substation of the state police, has been promoted from corporal to sergeant, effective November 1. Sergeant Tempke has been officer-in-charge of the Chambersburg substation since Sgt. Russell W. Frutchey, of Chambersburg, was recalled to army service September 15.

Sergeant Tempke was stationed in Chambersburg in 1941, when he was promoted from private to corporal. He was transferred to Duncannon, where he was in charge of the station there for two years. He served in a similar capacity at Gettysburg for a two-year period, and subsequently served a short time at Carlisle before being transferred to Chambersburg June 9 of this year.

POLICE SEEKING DRIVERS OF TWO HIT-RUN CARS

Hit and run drivers injured two persons on Adams county highways over the week-end. In both cases, state police were still searching for the drivers of the hit-run cars today.

John Rexroth, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Rexroth, Gettysburg R. 4, was the more seriously injured of the two persons hurt over the week-end. He was a patient at the Warner hospital today with fractures of the left ankle and right leg, has a deep laceration of the scalp and is suffering from shock.

According to State Policeman Robert Dietrich, of the local substation, who investigated, the Rexroth boy was riding on his bicycle on the extreme right edge of the Gettysburg-Harrisburg road one mile south of Heidelsburg Saturday evening at 5:30 o'clock. He was on his way home from Heidelsburg and was about one-half mile from his home.

Taken To Hospital

A car, said to have been traveling at great speed, struck the youth and bike knocking them over. A passing motorist who witnessed the accident, stopped and investigated and then halted a car driven by Herbert G. Raab, Gettysburg R. 3. Dr. William E. Flickinger, York Springs, was called by phone and when told the nature of the youth's injuries directed he be taken immediately to the Warner hospital. Raab and a companion, Milton Fanus, South Washington street, drove the young man to the hospital here.

Officer Dietrich said today that he has "some very good information" in the case in which he is continuing his investigation. The bicycle had about $10 damage. Rexroth's legs went through the wheels when he was struck and the seat, apparently hit by the car, was badly damaged.

Second Accident

The other hit-and-run accident occurred Sunday at 5:45 o'clock in Franklin township on the Lincoln highway six miles west of Gettysburg. Ida R. Newell, 80, Seven Stars, suffered a laceration of the scalp as a result of the accident.

According to state police, Charles E. Newell, 60, Seven Stars, was driving east on the highway when a hit-and-run car going west swerved over into Newell's side of the road and struck the left front fender of the Newell car. Newell's vehicle then went off the side of the road and down a slight ditch, coming to rest headed south. The other car continued on without stopping.

BRITAIN KEEPS MIDDLE OF ROAD COURSE IN VOTE

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

John Bull's municipal council elections give us further good indication of the general political trend in his tight little island—good enough, in fact, so that we are safe in labeling it as being fairly close to middle-of-the-road, with a moderate tendency to the left.

Final results in 360 cities and towns show this apportionment of the 2,319 seats: Labor (Socialists), 1,041; Conservatives, 647; Independents, 534; Liberals, 96; and Communists, one. The Laborites scored a net gain of 159. However, we shouldn't overlook that at the same time the Conservatives not only held their own but made a gain of four. Equally significant is the fact that the Communists held only one seat, as against the six they had before.

This tends to confirm the consensus of observers that when John Bull installed his brand new Socialist government last year he had no intention of becoming a long-haired radical. It certainly demonstrated anew that there is no trend toward the extreme left.

Great Changes

However, this middle-of-the-road England is a far different country from what it was when your columnist first went there thirty odd years ago. You wouldn't think it possible that there could be such vast social, political and economic changes in that comparatively brief span.

When I first went to England the old school tie still reigned supreme. Gentlemen were born, not made. A member of the aristocracy was a gentleman ipso facto, even though at the same time he might be a terrible rotter. A tradesman couldn't be a gentleman because he wasn't born that way—and neither could his son, even though he had degrees from a dozen universities and was a delightful person to meet.

Gentlemen's sons went to "public schools" (we call them private in America), while tradesmen's sons attended the plebeian municipal schools—and they were worlds apart. The old school tie was the open sesame for a lad starting out in life.

A New Britain

All that began to change after the first World War. This was due partly to the fact that taxation compelled a lot of once wealthy ladies and gentlemen to go to work, and partly to the insistent demands of the lower ranks for their place in the sun. The pace was accelerated with passing time until we witness the astonishing advent of a Socialist national government, and find the Socialists the strongest party in the municipal councils.

So we have a new Britain, and an interesting aspect of the change is that a lot of Conservatives have helped to bring it about by voting Socialist because they believed in the need of reform. That's what put the present Socialist government into power—and what will oust it if it stubs its toe.

The precision ride proved the most difficult for the riders, with Codori being the only scout to get a perfect score for the event. The precision ride course was a lane six inches wide and 80 feet long. When a scout's bicycle wheel touched the side lines he was disqualified. One point was given for each ten feet of the ride. Six of the scouts were unable to keep their bikes within the lane for a distance of ten feet.

Other Tests

The scouts had to ride the distance in more than 30 seconds in order to get any points and were disqualified if at any time during the ride their feet touched the ground or if the bicycle wheel touched the lane markers on either side. Staub took 41 seconds to the ride and Codori, 39 seconds.

Bucknell Defeats Bullets 19-0 After Rulings Halt Two Gettysburg "Touchdowns"

Seemingly unable to recover after officials' decisions had, nullified two apparent scores early in the first half, the Gettysburg college football team dropped its fourth game of the season to Bucknell at Lewisburg Saturday afternoon 19-0.

The first "touchdown" came in the first period when Joe Cervino intercepted a Bison pass on his own 30 and scampered 70 yards for what seemed to be a score. However, the play was recalled and the Bullets handed a 15-yard penalty for clipping on the play.

The cruelest blow came early in the second period. Coach "Hen" Bream's lads moved deep into Bucknell territory and made a first down on the 7-yard stripe. Three plays brought a net loss of a yard. Then Ross Sachs, in his first game after missing three in a row due to an injury, went around left end and was tackled in the extreme corner, falling on the goal line flag.

Missed By 1-Inch
Everyone in the crowd was certain the Bullet back had scored—except the officials. It was ruled that Sachs had missed, not by a yard or foot, but by ONE INCH.

That decision seemed to break the morale of the Bullets who had performed in great style during the first period and early minutes of the second period. Until that time the Bullet line stopped the Bucknell backs cold. However, Gene Hubka, star Bullet back, who was later to score two touchdowns, kept the Bullets back on their heels through exceptional punting, one boot stopping on the Bullets' 2-yard stripe and another on the one.

Bucknell's first touchdown came midway in the second period. Domazewski recovered a Gettysburg fumble on the Bisons' 27 and the home team marched 73 yards for a score. Hubka smacking over right tackle from the four yard line. The try for the point failed.

Coach Humphries lads marched 77 yards for a tally in the third period. A pass, Netski to Mair was good for 15 yards while Hubka and Stec turned in some nice running on the drive. Hubka went through center from the three to tally. Stec added the point on a placement.

Muhlenberg Next
With but three minutes of play remaining in the final period Bucknell scored again. Netski fired a pass to Williams who caught in on the four from where he tallied.

Bucknell rolled up 13 first downs and 243 yards from scrimmage while the Bream-men made six first downs and 91 yards on rushes.

Next Saturday the Bullets face their toughest assignment of the year in meeting unbeaten and untied Muhlenberg here in the Homecoming game.

EAGLES - GIANTS TIED FOR LEAD

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—The battle for the National Football league's Eastern Division pennant is snarled today while the Chicago Bears continue to lead the Western half race by a slim one game margin.

Philadelphia's battling Eagles deadlocked the New York Giants for the Eastern lead yesterday by trimming the polo ground crew 24-14.

Pittsburgh also edged into a technical tie for the lead by nipping Washington 14-7. Steelers have won and lost the same number of games as the Eagles and Giants but have played one more game, a tie. George Strickler, league publicist, said the circuit disregards ties and the standings are computed on won and lost percentage.

He pointed out that the tie would catch up with the Steelers when all the clubs finished their schedules, since all the teams will play the same number of games.

The Giants, who took over the lead from Washington last week by upsetting the Chicago Bears while the Eagles came from behind and tripped the Red Skins in the closing seconds, clash with the Eagles at New York next Sunday.

Bears Beat Packers
A record crowd of 45,321 at Chicago saw the Bears nose out the Green Bay Packers 10-7. This throng helped swell the total lured to the five league games to 172,773 and bring the attendance for 31 games so far to 1,021,680.

The champion Los Angeles Rams, who play host to the Bears this Sunday, clung within easy hailing distance of the western leaders by romping to a 41-20 victory over the tail-end Lions at Detroit.

Chicago's high scoring Cardinals defeated the last place Eastern division Yanks, 28-14, in a game witnessed by a rain drenched 10,556 spectators at Boston. The Yanks, like the Lions, now have lost six straight games.

EMMITSBURG 9 TRIPS HANOVER TO WIN TITLE

Emmitsburg climaxed its most successful, and longest, baseball season Sunday afternoon by blanking Hanover 5-0 before a large crowd at Emmitsburg to cop the championship of the Penn-Maryland league.

By snaring the title the Marylanders added their second league crown. Several weeks ago Emmitsburg nine copped the championship of the Adams County circuit by defeating Arendtsville in a playoff series.

Nino Briscuso, who has been one of the big guns for Emmitsburg throughout the season and who has been contemplating signing a contract with the St. Louis Browns, was in great form again Sunday. Although rapped for eight safeties he kept the blows well scattered and was never in serious trouble.

Emmitsburg tallied a pair of runs in the second inning. Briscuso led off with a single and was sacrificed to second by George Kennell. T. Combs singled driving in Briscuso and the latter scored on Rosensteel's single.

Kennel Homers
Another run came in the fourth when Kennel pounded a homerun to left field.

In the eighth Kennel walked and scored when T. Combs tripled. Rosensteel grounded out, George to Huber, but on the play Combs scampered home.

Hanover's most serious bid for a score came in the sixth. After two successful singles by Hanover batsmen, Emmitsburg pulled out of the hole on a double play. T. Combs taking a line drive and turning it into a twin killing on a throw to Briscuso who relayed to Rosensteel to nip a runner.

Cleveland Lead Cut To One Game

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Cleveland Browns, who at one time appeared well on their way to an easy western division victory in the all America football conference, find themselves leading their sector by only a single game today.

Winners of their first seven games, the Browns since have dropped two straight decisions, the latest to the Los Angeles Dons yesterday, 17-16.

Consequently the Browns now lead the second place San Francisco 49ers whom they meet Sunday, by one game. The 49ers trounced Buffalo 27-14 Saturday night.

Win In Final Seconds
The New York Yankees, Eastern Division leaders, squeaked out a 24-21 decision over the last place Miami Seahawks, winning the game in the final 26 seconds when Ace Parker pitched a scoring pass to Jack Russell.

The Yanks now lead the runner-up Brooklyn Dodgers who topped the Chicago Rockets 21-14 Saturday night to lead by 2½ games.

Legion Counting 1947 Membership

Harrisburg, Nov. 4 (AP)—State Commander Clyde E. Rankin of the American Legion, estimated that work on counting memberships for 1947 would be completed today and some idea would be available as to how close the state came to its quota of 500,000 members.

When the counting stopped on Saturday the total had passed the 100,000 mark, with approximately 67,000 men and 34,964 women listed. Of the 550 posts that reported up to yesterday, 17 had exceeded their quota, Rankin said.

Grid Game Here Wednesday Night

Announcement was made today that the Gettysburg high jayvee—Hanover Junior high football game originally scheduled for Thursday has been advanced to Wednesday evening.

The contest will be played on the local gridiron and will start at 7 o'clock.

Coach Fred Haehnlen's lads will be seeking their second victory, having won one game and lost two in three previous starts.

ARMY VS IRISH HOLDS CENTER OF GRID STAGE

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, Nov. 4 (AP)—They'll play the usual quota of college football games on the white-striped fields around the country this week but to the average fan the only thing that matters will be the National championship struggle between Army and Notre Dame.

Not since the Titanic struck the iceberg has a head-on collision attracted as much attention as this important clash bringing the nation's two outstanding gridiron powers face to face at New York's Yankee stadium on Saturday afternoon.

These two outfits still remain unbeaten and untied—a condition shared only by UCLA and Georgia among all the major elevens in the land.

Both of them warmed up to the battle of the year by scoring shut-out victories last week-end, a week-end in which Pennsylvania and Harvard were hauled rudely out of the all-victorious class and such one-sided teams as Northwestern, North Carolina and Oregon absorbed their first defeats.

Notre Dame whipped Navy 28-0 for its fifth triumph of the year.

Army subdued a stubborn West Virginia team 19-0 to run its three-year victory string to 25 in a row.

Penn Meets Columbia
Pennsylvania, upset by Princeton 17-14, also plays in New York this week, leaving its home field for the first time in three years to meet Columbia, which was surprised by Cornell 12-0. Harvard, clipped by Rutgers, 13-0, returns to Ivy league play where it now tops the standings to invade Dartmouth.

Other top games in the east will have Syracuse at Cornell, Temple at Penn State, Fordham at West Virginia, Colgate at Holy Cross and Virginia at Princeton.

On the other side of the country, an important week-end is coming up in the Pacific coast conference, where Southern California has emerged as the likely team to fight it out with UCLA for the title when they meet November 23. UCLA kept its record clean Friday night by beating St. Mary's 46-20, and Southern Cal wrested second place from Oregon with a 43-0 triumph on Saturday.

UCLA invades Oregon this week while Southern California goes to California, 47-14 conqueror of Washington State, and Stanford and Oregon state, who played a scoreless tie, entertain Washington and Idaho respectively.

Navy At Georgia Tech

Georgia, the south's major power, kept its slate unmarred by white-washing Alabama 14-0, and bids for further southeastern conference honors this week at Florida. Tennessee, which knocked North Carolina out of the unbeaten Circle 20-14, and Mississippi get together at Memphis, while Alabama goes to Louisiana State, 34-21 conqueror of Mississippi, and Mississippi state goes to Auburn for other Southeastern conference struggles.

Navy will be at Georgia Tech, 14-0 winner over Duke; Clemson, which upset Virginia Tech 14-7, will go to Tulane, and North Carolina state to Vanderbilt for non-conference games.

Only three games are on the big nine schedule this week as Illinois, the new leader after its 7-0 win over Iowa, takes a rest and Ohio State, which dropped Northwestern from the undefeated ranks 39-27, entertains Pittsburgh in a non-conference affair.

TOP-RANKING SCHOOL TEAMS ARE UNBEATEN

By TOM SHRIVER

Harrisburg, Nov. 4 (AP)—Eleven top ranking scholastic football teams are still undefeated as the grid elevens turn into the final weeks of the waning season.

Heading the list is Huntington high, with a record of 23 straight, the latest a 33-0 win over DuBois. Right behind, and a strong contender for the Western Conference crown won last year by Huntington, is little Bellwood—Antis with 15 straight, the last a 68-0 crushing handed to Williamsburg. These two teams are fighting it out for the Western Conference crown.

Across the state Allentown high rolled to its 13th straight by chalk-up a 75-0 victory over Mahanoy City, one of the largest scores of the season. Kingston moved into the thick of the fight for the Eastern Conference crown by winning its ninth straight at the expense of heretofore unbeaten Meyers of Wilkes-Barre, 19-12.

Hershey Seeks Crown

Pressing close behind these fast stepping leaders are Sharpville, unbeaten in western ranks; Ambridge and New Kensington, two of the three remaining contenders for the WPAL crown; Bloomsburg, unbeaten leader in the Susquehanna league; Hershey, seeking a second South Penn Conference crown; Pottstown, winner of six straight; and in the Philadelphia suburban ranks, Sharon Hill, with their latest victory a 33-0 shattering administered to Lansdowne.

Ambridge won a non-league fray from North Catholic, 33-19; New Kensington took the measure of Vandergrift, another previously unbeaten rival, 21-0; while Duquesne, third contender for the WPAL championship, moved past Clairton, 32-6. The Dukes were beaten once this year in a non-league fray with Kiski prep, but still figure in the WPAL race.

Bloomsburg made it seven straight by noosing out Jersey Shore, 7-0; Hershey had little trouble with Gettysburg, 42-0; while Pottstown won from Conshohocken, 27-0.

Others Who Fell

In addition to Vandergrift, and Meyers, the other unbeaten teams to fall by the wayside in a series of upsets were Ferndale, beaten by Westmont, 13-6 after chalking up eight straight; Altoona, victim of Donora, last year's WPAL champion, 24-14; Blakely, vanquished by Scranton Tech in an upset, 18-0; and Nazareth, bowing to Bangor, 19-13 for the first jolt of the year.

Pottsville, Steelton, and Harrisburg Catholic are still in the ranks of the unbeaten, but each has been tied once during the season. Pottsville turned back Lebanon, 14-7 in a thrill-packed fray; Steelton took the measure of Shamokin, 28-7; and Harrisburg Catholic chalked up its seventh win of the year at Lancaster Catholic, 24-6.

Injuries Fatal To Grid Player

Reading, Pa., Nov. 4 (AP)—A 21-year-old football player died last night of injuries received earlier in the day in a Greater Reading Conference game.

St. Joseph's hospital officials said the player, Theodore Mish, died of a brain hemorrhage apparently resulting from a severe blow.

Mish, who had been active in the conference, an independent amateur football circuit, was the third member of his family to have met sudden death, two brothers having been killed in action during the war.

Greensburg, Pa., Nov. 4 (AP)—Purchase of 344 acres of land in Burrell township, Westmoreland county, for use in construction of a New Kensington, Arnold and Vandergrift airport was authorized Saturday by the Westmoreland county court. The price was $53,739.

PENN DEFEAT LEAVES LIONS MAJOR WINNER

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

(AP Sports Writer)

The Pennsylvania football picture was anything but bright today following a week-end that saw four of the Keystone state's major collegiate grid teams fall by the wayside.

The upsetting of powerful Penn by a supposedly docile Princeton Tiger highlighted the action that found Villanova bowing to Miami university 27-19; Temple succumbing to the aerial accuracy of Syracuse, 28-7, and Pittsburgh going down under the incessant pounding of rugged Indiana, 20-6.

Penn State Rump

Penn State remained the only major college team in the Keystone state to hit the victory column as the Nittany Lions trampled an unusually weak Fordham team, 68-0.

Penn, outgunned by inspired Princeton, fell from the unbeaten and untied class with a thud on a last-minute field goal that gave the Tigers a 17-14 decision.

The defeat of Penn—last week's third ranking team nationally—left Pennsylvania with only three undefeated and untied teams—Thiel, California Teachers' and Muhlenberg.

Little but mighty Muhlenberg pounded Lehigh, 40-7 to win its sixth straight victory; Thiel edged Allegheny 13-7, and California Teachers' romped to a 54-0 triumph over Salem, W. Va.

Previously undefeated but twice tied Westminster received its first jolt as Geneva, halted on the ground, passed to a 19-0 decision.

Unbeaten but once tied Mansfield Teachers had little trouble squashing Edinboro 51-7, but had the dubious distinction of being the first team the losers scored on this season.

Leading Scorer

Dan Roskos took over the scoring leadership among eastern football players as he romped to five touchdowns in pacing East Stroudsburg to a 53-0 victory over Montclair Teachers' of New Jersey.

In other games involving Pennsylvania teams, here were the final scores:

Delaware 28, Franklin and Marshall 0; Washington and Jefferson, 48, Carnegie Tech 0; Johns Hopkins 7, Drexel 0; Wesleyan 33, Harvard 0; Alfred 27, Juniata 0; Colgate 38, Lafayette 0; Lebanon Valley 38, Mt. St. Mary's 6; Youngstown 33, Scranton 4; Ursinus 13, PMC 0; West Chester Teachers 26, Albright 0; Niagara 19, Wayneburg 6; Dickinson 14, Swarthmore 0; Slippery Rock Teachers 21, Grove City 0; Bloomsburg Teachers 19, Kutztown Teachers 0; Indiana Teachers 27, Clarion Teachers 14; Hartwick 26, Susquehanna 13; Lock Haven Teachers 13, Rider 0; Millersville Teachers 6, Princess Anne 6; Lincoln 10, Hampton Institute 7.

The Late Freshet: On Monday the streams in this section of country were swollen to a fearful height by the unexampled deluge of rain. The loss by destruction of fencing along the creeks is immense. Part of the wing-wall of the bridge over Marsh-creek, on the Hagerstown road, was carried away, and we learn that the bridge at East Berlin has been much injured. The dam of Mr. Henry Fehl, in Menallen gage way, and the rush of water placed those on the stream below in imminent danger. It was with difficulty that the mill and house at Bell's (Sandoe's) was saved. We understand that the road in the Narrows has been rendered impassable for the present, deep gullies having been washed out by the flood. Mr. Fehl had a large amount of coal, just ready for removal, carried off and entirely lost.

At the Conowago bridge, on the Harrisburg road, the water rose to such a height on the west side of the bridge as to render it impassable.

Today's Talk

I CHOOSE FAITH

There is great questioning and doubt afloat in the world. People ask why it is that millions of human beings have been allowed to be killed, enslaved, and starved. They ask why does God permit such a thing? Why does he allow such suffering in the world, and allow such fear to be bred in the minds of millions? Why, they say, does he allow these cruel wars? Death is the end of all—so why worry, they say.

Well, I can neither question nor interpret the ideas of God. Surely he meant that all his creatures should be given justice, and allowed the free opportunity for happiness. But I cannot understand why God should be held responsible for the evil ways of the many who decide that they will not follow his plan for universal happiness in a world that was created that all might be free and happy. It is a beautiful world, with substance sufficient to make all comfortable. Man must choose his way for good or evil. When he chooses the good, he is happy.

Nature's laws run true to form. Death in the physical world is accepted without complaint. It is accepted, as well, in the human world, on the part of those who have faith, also, without complaint. Nothing that doubt offers can convince me that this life of ours is snuffed out, without plan or purpose. For myself I choose faith, and I shall cling to it to my last breath! All the evidences in Nature point to a happy beyond. The great tree daily seeks a higher level that it may reach more light.

It is to us, the living, to whom all who died in faith, look for a resurrection of hope that their sacrifices may not have been in vain. Through faith alone are we able to gain a glimpse of the genuine purpose of our life, and of our placement upon this earth. Through faith alone can we live the victorious life—leaving the result to Him who planted the stars in the heavens, gave order to the Universe, and who breathed into man a soul eternal.

I place a little mechanical box upon my desk, disconnected from all wires, and hear the natural voice of one, thousands of miles away. Man discovered certain laws that have made such a wonder possible—but God performed the miracle! The same as he performs the miracle of the rose. Can faith be less miraculous? I think not.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Distribution"

New County Superintendent: Mr. J. H. Wert, having tendered his resignation as County Superintendent, to take effect October 1, the State Superintendent has appointed Mr. P. D. W. He is admirably qualified for the position.

A Fast Run: On Monday the Tender on the Engine on the Gettysburg Railroad broke an axle, when near New Oxford. A despatch to Hanover for an Engine was had, and when the train reached Hanover it was one hour behind time. The run from Hanover to the Junction, 13 miles, was made in seventeen minutes, including four stoppings. It would be less than one mile per minute. Fast running, that.

Speaking by Machinery: A machine which utters nearly all, if not absolutely all, the articulate sounds which the human voice is capable of producing, was exhibited on Wednesday evening at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, before a large audience of ladies and gentlemen. The exhibition gave what appeared to be a fair test of the powers of the machine, causing it to utter English, German and French language words and sentences. This wonderful machine is the invention of Professor Faber, of Vienna, and who has been thirty years in perfecting the automaton.

RING DOORBELLS TO GET OUT THE
VOTE TUESDAY

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—Appeals went out from both Republican and Democratic state headquarters today to "get out the vote" at Tuesday's general election as Pennsylvania's "gloves-off" political campaign shifted from the stump to door-bell ringing.

With the Keystone state's delegation in Congress and control of the state government at stake, party workers on each side were instructed to concentrate their efforts in the next two days towards getting as many as possible of the 4,600,000 registered voters to the polls.

Both sides claimed victory at the end of a hard two-months' campaign during which charges and counter-charges were hurled back and forth by opposing candidates across the state from Republican Philadelphia in the east to Democratic Pittsburgh in the west.

Somebody Is Wrong

J. Warren Mickle, Democratic state chairman, predicted re-election of U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey and victory for John S. Rice, the party's candidate for governor by a plurality of 150,000 votes.

M. Harvey Taylor, Republican state chairman, on the other hand, claimed election of Governor Martin to the U. S. Senate and Attorney General James H. Duff as governor by a "landslide" vote. Governor Martin said the GOP would win by 290,000 votes.

In addition to U. S. Senator and governor, the voters will elect two other state-wide officials, lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs; 33 representatives in Congress, 208 state representatives and half of the 50 members of the state Senate.

Guffey And FDR

Both parties, merging state and national issues, concentrated their campaign on fights for the U. S. Senate and governor.

Guffey, seeking a third term, stressed his "100 per cent" record for policies of the late President Roosevelt and said a Democratic Congress was necessary to continue them.

Martin, criticizing the national administration, called for election of a Republican Congress to balance the national budget, declaring that action necessary "to restore solvency and economic stability" to the nation.

Rice, during the campaign, stressed a claim the Republican state administration had written a "do nothing" record. Martin and Duff replied the last two state administrations practiced "good house-keeping and sound financial management."

Long Farm Hours
Worked In State

Pennsylvania farm operators this fall are averaging better than 12 hours each day at their work, and hired hands are sticking at harvesting and other farm chores for more than 10 hours a day, the state Department of Agriculture announced following a Federal-State farm labor survey as of September 1.

Operators on farms of the state this September were working 12.4 hours compared with 12.7 hours last year, a difference of less than 20 minutes. In 1939 the September work-day averaged 12.2 hours.

TENT CATERPILLAR CONTROL

Tent caterpillars are most annoying and destructive. Although they do their damage in the spring, destruction of their egg cases is a job for early winter rather than early spring. They prefer all kinds of cherries, crab apples and various other trees and shrubs for deposition of the eggs.

Look over these plants carefully just as soon as the leaves have fallen, paying particular attention to the young, thin branches. The egg cases are the same color as the branches but they are easily detected because they appear as elongated swellings, mostly encircling the slim stem. Once the gardener has learned to identify them, he will have no trouble spotting most of them. Peel them off and burn.

Plant Bulbs Until
Ground Is Frozen

Planting of hardy bulbs, particularly tulips, hyacinths and daffodils, may continue throughout this month as long as the ground is not frozen or rendered unsafe for planting because of rain.

Hardy shrubs are adaptable to November planting. They will settle thoroughly during the winter and begin to grow early next spring as if no disturbance had occurred.

Continue to plant trees with the exception of dogwood, magnolia, cherry and birch.

Transplant Grapes

Because grapes start growth in early spring, a good time to plant or transplant the vines is in the late fall, when they are fully dormant. If the soil is heavy, lighten it by mixing in sand, or gravel and peat moss, or rotted manure. A wet soil must be drained. Planting holes are dug wide enough to receive the roots in their natural spreading positions.

Give house plants a periodical inspection for insect pests. Leaves may be kept clean by washing when necessary with a soap and water solution and then rinsed with clear water.

Lilac planting may continue into early winter. The location must be sunny, good drainage is essential and the soil in which they are placed should be slightly alkaline.

Cleaning up the garden before the winter sets in not only gives the garden a tidy appearance but has real practical value. It contributes toward more effective insect and disease control and gives the gardener more time to devote to early spring planting.

No Figures Yet
On Small-Game Kill

Harrisburg, Nov. 4 (AP)—Seth Gordon, executive secretary of the State Game commission, declared that figures for game kill in Pennsylvania would hardly be available before the end of the week.

"Some reports were phoned in to state headquarters during the opening day of the season," Gordon said yesterday, "but they were so scattered to be of any service in reaching conclusions of probable kill."

Gordon explained that "we have seven field captains on the job" and declared "it is their job to get reports from all sections of the state, but these reports have been slow in arriving."

Anticipating few reports would reach the office tomorrow on account of election day, Gordon said it would be Wednesday, or possibly Thursday before the first figures were available on this year's small game season.

During the first days of the season one hunter was killed, three died of heart attacks, two were seriously injured, and nearly 30 more hurt in hunting accidents.

Teachers To Seek
Minimums Of $2,400

Pittsburgh, Nov. 4 (AP)—Annual minimum salaries of $2,400 will be sought by Western Pennsylvania school teachers, the western district of the Pennsylvania State Education association decided at week-end convention sessions here.

In addition, the group voted to press for upgrading of salaries of non-teaching employees in second, third and fourth class districts to the level of workers in first class districts. Still another demand calls for amending the public school employees' retirement law to permit voluntary retirement at 55, or at completion of 30 years' service.

Tulips May Be Planted Now

There used to be an old rule—Plant tulip bulbs on Election Day. This was not exactly sound, although the more important significance in it might have been—Tulips may be planted as late as Election Day. In other words, planting should be done sometime between mid-October and the first week in November. The main aim is to afford the bulbs time to get adjusted in their new home before freezing weather arrives. Apparently the bulbs must not be planted until the soil begins to grow cold.

Much is yet to be learned about the factor of temperature in handling tulip bulbs, particularly during the storage period. Experiments show that a short chilling tends to hasten growth rather than retard it. But on the other hand they must be kept fairly cool after digging, else they will come "blind" after planting—that is, produce foliage but no blooms.

These observations indicate that tulip bulbs may be better off in their bed over summer than in cellar or basement storage, providing the soil has not been too heavily fertilized and is kept moist. If, however, the bed is exposed to the drying sun and cannot be kept at least medium moist and cool, bulbs should be taken up after the tops die back and stored in a cool cellar or basement.

Then too, many other former theories about tulip culture have been thrown out the window of practice. For example, it was once believed that tulips required plenty of bone meal and other fertilizers. Now there are successful growers who claim that organic fertilizers for tulips are largely useless and that the ideal soil is one high in calcium (lime) and magnesium. For this reason finishing lime is worked into the soil before planting.

TO LEARN ABOUT BEEKEEPING

Awakened public interest in beekeeping reveals the need for more available information on the subject. Several instructive government publications and many fine textbooks may be obtained free or purchased by interested persons. The editor has compiled a list he deems adequate to provide a liberal course of instruction in practical phases of apiculture (beekeeping). He will be glad to furnish readers the list by mail. Merely enclose a 3-cent stamp with name and address. And at the same time, do not hesitate to include all the bee and honey questions desired.

Good Supply Of
Pa. Certified Oats

Despite unfavorable growing conditions for oats this year in Pennsylvania, the state Department of Agriculture announces that a good supply of state certified seed oats will be available from growers in 25 counties.

The largest acreage since 1944 was entered this year for field inspections by agents of the department's Bureau of Plant Industry, a total of 2,684 acres.

According to K. W. Lauer, plant disease specialist in charge of state seed certification, more than a thousand acres had to be rejected in field inspections, leaving a total of 1,646 acres from which the seed can be certified, provided it passes the final test of 99 per cent purity and germination of at least 85 per cent. This acreage compares with 1,704 certified last year and 1,985 in 1944.

A list of 1946 growers of certified seed oats can be obtained on request to the Bureau of Plant Industry, state Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg.

HOTEL STRIKE AT STANDSTILL

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—Negotiations to end a walkout of service employees of three of Philadelphia's largest hotels—The Bellevue-Stratford, the Sylvania and the Majestic—appeared at a standstill today.

The Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union (CIO), is seeking arbitration of all issues, including an 18½-cent-an-hour wage increase, before it will consent to meet with representatives of the three hotels.

Albert M. Greenfield, representing majority bondholders of the Bellevue, said management has agreed to arbitrate all issues except wage increases. Greenfield and a spokesman for the Majestic urged striking employees to wait until the hotels are granted OPA price relief on rentals before pressing for wage increases.

George Bucher, business agent for Local 356, Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union (CIO), said workers at all of the hotels are seeking a reduction of the work week from 48 to 40 hours with no reduction in pay, and improved holiday and vacation clauses in addition to the hourly wage increase.

Salary rates now range from $15 a week for bellboys to $41.50 for engineers, Bucher said.

Meanwhile, the truck drivers refused to cross picket lines to make coal deliveries to the hotels. Bucher said the drivers' decision not to cross the picket lines came shortly after engine room crews at the Bellevue banked their fires and joined the walkout.

MAN RAISES HIS ARMS ABOVE HIS HEAD FOR FIRST TIME IN YEARS

A few days ago a man said the rheumatic pains in his arms and shoulders disappeared and now he can raise his arms above his head for the first time in years. He said the pains he used to have from this rheumatism were simply awful. Sometimes his knees and hips were stiff and sore, but the pains were mostly in the back of his neck and across his shoulders. Now, however, his suffering is entirely gone and he says the change is due to taking RHU-AID. "Oh! What relief!", states this man. "Why don't other rheumatic sufferers get RHU-AID?"

RHU-AID is a new formula. It contains Three Great Ingredients, so it is almost like taking three medicines in one. It goes right to the source of rheumatic aches and pains. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get RHU-AID. Sold by all drug stores here in Gettysburg.

Four Persons Die In Philadelphia Fire

Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—Four persons, including a partially crippled father and his two small sons who apparently tried to rescue him, died yesterday when fire gutted a rooming house here.

At Memorial hospital, the victims were identified as Edward Klepac, 32, a partially crippled retired grocer; and Edward Klepac, Jr., 11, and Martin Klepac, 8, his sons, and James Kelly, 46, a brewery worker. Firemen said the victims apparently were suffocated while trying to escape. The bodies of Klepac and his sons were found just inside the door of a third floor rear room, lying face downward with Klepac in the center, his arms around the shoulders of his two sons.

Kelly was found lying across a bed in a second floor room.

Another roomer, John Cupchak, 35, suffered first and second degree burns.

Klepac's mother, Mrs. Adella Prezbyszewski, owner of the house,

HOUSE CONTROL GUIDE FOR '48

Washington, Nov. 4 (AP)—The Republicans say they have a good chance of winning control of the House in next Tuesday's Congressional elections.

The Democrats—through having a majority of the seats—control the House now and have since 1931.

But this is an off-year election. Which means: A Congressional election between Presidential elections: The Presidential elections of 1944 and 1948.

Since the Civil War—with one exception, which was a strange one—any administration Republican, or Democratic, which lost control of the House in an off-year election said Klepac had brought his sons to visit her Saturday.

lost the presidency two years later.

So if the Republicans win the House next Tuesday—from the present Democratic administration—they'll shoot with renewed hope at winning the presidency in 1948. And they'll have tradition on their side.

Four hundred persons lost their lives, 600,000 were made homeless, and property damage of more than $200,000,000 was caused in the 1927 Mississippi flood.

VOTING IN 16 STATES WILL CHART TRENDS

(By The Associated Press)

The balloting in 16 key states appears likely to chart the nation's legislative course for the next two years when upwards of 35,000,000 voters choose tomorrow among more than 1,000 candidates for national and state offices.

These 16 states, stretching from Massachusetts to California, hold the major share of close contests which will determine Democratic or Republican control of the House and Senate in the 80th Congress.

Many of these same states also are among the 33 where governorships are at stake in this off-year election.

Senate Seats At Stake

With both major parties making their usual last-minute victory claims, attention centered on a final Republican drive to wrest nine Senate seats from the Democrats. Added to those which they claim already are in the bag, the nine would give the GOP control of the Senate for the first time since the New Deal came into power.

These seats are in New York, Massachusetts, Missouri, Idaho, Montana, Washington, West Virginia, Wyoming and New Mexico. Democrats insist they not only will win in these races, but are unwilling to concede that the Republicans have a better than even chance to take over in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Wisconsin.

In the hope of cashing in on what many observers have called a trend against the "ins," the Democrats have gone out after Republican-held Senate places in Kentucky and California with what they contend are fair prospects of winning both.

GOP Seeks House Gains

These 15 states—along with Illinois which has no Senatorial contest—promise to furnish most of the vital results in the hotly-contested races which GOP leaders assert will give them control of the House. The Democrats sharply dispute these victory claims.

In the House, the Republicans now have 192 members. They need to retain all of these or equivalent districts and gain 26 for the 218 which marks a clear majority. The Democrats, with 235 members, could lose a net of 17 and still maintain control. There are six vacancies and two minor parties now represented among the 435 House places.

In the Senate, the Republicans must make a proportionately larger gain of 10, since they now hold only 39 of the 96 places. Democrats, with 56, could lose seven and keep their majority organization intact. Both parties are fighting for the seat of Senator Robert M. La Follette (Prog-Wis), who was defeated in the Republican primary.

33 Governorships

Ninety-seven candidates are in the field for 34 Senate seats which will be filled in tomorrow's election. There are 880 contestants for the 432 House seats at stake and 88 for the 33 governorships now held by 16 Democrats and 17 Republicans.

Maine already has returned Senator Owen Brewster (R) for another six-year term, kept its three House seats in the GOP column and re-elected Gov. Horace A. Hildreth (R).

Party leaders prepared to turn to the radio tonight to wind up a campaign that generally has been marked by skimpy crowds at political rallies and by outward apathy of the voters to candidates' appeals on formal issues.

PROBE INCENDIARIES

Zelenople, Pa., Nov. 4 (P)—Evidence of arson was sought today by state police investigating a fire which an official of the Robert Cunningham and Sons Coal Co., said did $20,000 damage to the firm's warehouse here Saturday. NINE KILLED IN HEADON CRASH

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 4 (P)—Nine persons, including a young mother, her husband and their prematurely born baby, died yesterday when two automobiles crashed head-on and burst into flames at nearby Dallas, burning eight of the cars' occupants so badly that identification was impossible for hours afterward.

Luzerne county coroner Lewis E. Reese identified the victims as: Mrs. Jean Mayer, 20, her husband, Chester, 21, and their baby, born prematurely in the crash; Sgt. Gilbert Vankirk, 23, Forty Fort, Pa., home on leave from the army; George Jones, Jr., 21, Kingston, Pa., a veteran on terminal leave; Frances LaVelle, 18, Kingston, Pa., and her cousin, Jane LaVelle, 17, Scranton, Pa.; Glen Hilbert, 21, Beaumont, Pa.; Richard Denmon, 19, Alderson, Pa.

State Police Sgt. LeRoy Thomas said Holbert and Denmon had left Wilkes-Barre in one car when they encountered the second car bearing the others who were returning from a recreation spot at Harvey's Lake.

Two friends of Hilbert's, who were riding in another car behind the auto in which Hilbert was riding, said they rushed to the scene of the crash immediately after it occurred but were unable to approach the wreckage because of the intense heat.

Sgt. Thomas said the two youths then noticed Moyer, apparently thrown clear of the wreckage, lying unconscious nearby and took him to a Kingston hospital after turning in a fire alarm. Moyer died 12 hours later without regaining consciousness.

The bodies of the other victims were not taken from the wreckage

Burglars Set Fire While Robbing Safe

Somerset, Pa., Nov. 4 (P)—State police searched today for safecrackers they blamed for setting a $15,000 fire after looting $1,200 from a safe in the offices of the Somerset Farm Cooperative.

Cooperative Manager Myrl Ream, who estimated the damage to the three-story, frame building, said farm and household equipment, seed and feed were destroyed as well as the structure's second and third floors. State Police Sergeant H. A. Stephens reported the burglars set the fire with acetylene torches, apparently in an attempt to cover up the theft.

merce and about 300 independent producers are sponsoring the fete. The program will include an oil producers' banquet and a big parade. A plaque will be erected to mark the site, where Job Moses, oil pioneer, brought in the district's first well.

Although some experts predicted back as far as 1890 that the Bradford sands were drying up, the water flooding method has helped local oil production surpass the volume of natural flow from wells during the field's first 56 years of life.

Ellis Charges Administration Has Held Up U. S. Sugar

Huntington, W. Va.—Rep. Hubert S. Ellis Monday charged the Truman administration with deliberately withholding sugar from the American people, and produced evidence to show that large quantities of sugar are available to any place in the world except the United States.

The congressman exhibited an advertisement from the New York Journal of Commerce, dated September 20, in which the John M. H. Shline company of New York city offered white, refined sugar, in 100 pound bags, "available for immediate shipment from Cuban port for export anywhere except the United States."

"This is just about the last straw," the congressman declared. "I am at the bottom of my sugar bowl and so is every householder in the United States, and yet an American firm can ship sugar to any point in the world from Cuba except to America. Here is indisputable proof that the Washington administration is deliberately withholding sugar from the American people. This is part and parcel of their program of making the people suffer so that they can keep government controls over our citizens, and tens of thousands of useless bureaucrats on the pay-rolls."

Mr. Ellis said that every constituent to whom he had shown the advertisement "had burst to a crisp, and properly so." He said that on many occasions he had appealed to the administration to do something about the sugar problem, but had been met with "evasions and poor excuses."

"This is just one of the hundreds of reasons why we should get rid of this New Deal outfit, lock, stock and barrel," he declared.

ROTC Sergeant

took part was the Battle of the Bulge when his outfit was sent to take the territory where the 106th had been captured.

Lucky To Escape

He was in on the leap across the Moselle river at Coblenz and in on the dash to the Rhine. His outfit was one of the first across the Rhine. Later he fought through to Saxony province which is now in Russian hands and finally wound up on the edge of the Czech border. "It was lucky that I escaped without injury," he says, despite the fact that he was in the midst of fighting all of the way across northern France and in Germany.

There was the time he was on a night patrol with a buddy. They came to a house and heard Germans talking inside. They had two white phosphorus grenades with them. The grenades were hurled through windows and the Germans came out on fire. Of the 11 in the building the sergeant and his companion killed nine. Two escaped. And there was the time he captured a knife from an SS colonel. The sergeant and two companions heard a rustling in a haystack. They set fire to the haystack and the colonel and several other Germans came out.

Refused Commission

And then there was the time near the Zeigfried line when the sergeant was "just plain lucky." A truck in which he and 35 other men were riding hit a double plastic mine. Eleven of the soldiers were killed. The sergeant was injured.

On one occasion he and a companion were bracketed by an 88. To escape that usually fatal third shot they ran straight through a mine field. "There was a chance the mines would not explode but there wasn't much chance the 88 would miss," explains the sergeant. The mines did not go off.

Several times the sergeant was offered field commissions while battling in Europe. He turned down the offers of a second lieutenantcy, explaining—"I was making too much money as a non-com."

Chapter 15

Before they could stop him Niel tore it to fragments. A curse burst from the General, he leaned on the desk, his face ugly. "That was foolish, Mr. Dana," he grated through his teeth. "You will begin again."

"What the hell do you think I am," said Niel. All his plaster cutting might be in vain the way the General looked.

"You must write!" Steiner broke in. Irritably the General pushed paper toward Niel. "Write!"

He leaned back in his chair and surveyed them both, this is where he had them. Over their heads in Conrad's eyes he saw an emotion that lent him hope. Suddenly Conrad seemed to tower above the other two.

"Don't make an issue of this," he said quietly. "I can attend to it later." When they did not answer he added sharply: "Leave it to me Von Beck."

"I prefer it to be written now," insisted Von Beck. "Can't you see he has no intention of writing," said Franz with surprising calmness. "Conrad's right, it's of no consequence now." He shrugged and turned gestured Conrad. Von Beck inclined away.

"Shall we play cards," suggested his head slightly but not enough to hide the glitter in his eyes. "I seem to be over-ruled . . . if it pleases the American to play with us," he mocked. Noel stood up. "You overwhelm me," bowed the General. Niel couldn't hold back a sardonic smile because he knew Von Beck had incurred Steiner's ill will: it was in his rigid bearing, the pale straight line of his lips.

Conrad set chairs around an old fashioned table. "Well what are the stakes?" Von Beck's voice was almost as smooth as the beer. "How can Mr. Dana play stakes," said Steiner hurriedly as if the idea embarrassed him. The General shuffled the pack expertly. "I wasn't thinking of money," he said without raising his head, still shuffling the cards. "I was thinking of something a little more exciting," went on the General. Once more he shuffled the cards then banged them down on the table under his hand, but continued to speak in the same soft tones. "Since Mr. Dana seems to be the type to invite excitement," Conrad was staring at Franz like a sleep-walker. Franz laughed harshly. "Forget about the letter."

"If Mr. Dana loses he must write the letter."

"He'll be shot."

Franz rose to his feet. "You're just using that letter as an excuse."

"Sit down!" roared Von Beck. Then with more control: "and the second loser will attend to the detail of the shooting . . . what could be more sporting?" He began to laugh. "Leave it to the turn of the cards, eh! Let the king, or queen or ace be responsible, not us. You Franz, that should please you." His coarse laughter stopped abruptly because

Franz sat motionless.

"It ought to relieve that conscience which seems to be troubling you lately." There was a menacing sarcasm.

"Could you desire a more gallant way to settle your fate," chorled the General. Niel met his steady eyes.

"I'm unusually lucky at cards," he lied.

But as he listened to the muffle of the falling cards he was caught in a whirlpool of emotion.

Vaguely he was conscious that the General won the play, the deal went to Conrad. Snap out of it, he told himself.

It wasn't like Von Beck to leave things to chance. As Conrad gathered the card he felt them expertly. Some were nicked. One he saw as he swept them into his hands was a king. He shuffled, glanced at Von Beck and Steiner who studied Niel with a casualness that left him out of observation, then broke the pack where he felt something—again it was a king. Twice again he shuffled and caught a nicked king. The fourth nicked card he dealt to Niel. The only one who could have nicked four kings was Franz . . . he couldn't believe it, for it sent a violent bitterness through him and preoccupied him through the deal. It would be safer for Franz and Von Beck if Niel Dana was dead. Then he recalled how Franz hadn't wanted to make an issue of the letter, that he had been numb to stillness when the General had delivered his ultimatum. Because of his mask it wasn't easy to read his reaction but his lips had curled in contempt when he resisted Von Beck's authority. Then suddenly the whole thing was clear! Franz nicked the cards to deal Dana winning hands. Coming from him Von Beck would not suspect. Franz wasn't willing to leave too much to chance.

Niel won. On the next deal Conrad bet high watching Niel closely until he caught the same glint in his eyes as when he had torn the letter under the General's nose. Then he felt confident Niel would bluff his way through instead of trying to match amateur knowledge against their skill. With nothing in his hand he'd bet to the moon. As Niel went along with him he wondered if he hoped for his help. Von Beck played cautiously but Niel went along with each raise till finally he and Steiner dropped out. When Conrad called, Niel put down his cards with an expression that made him want to laugh and as he spread his own cards he did laugh. Von Beck swore furiously.

"What a hell of a way to play!" A smile flickered across Steiner's lips but he said nothing.

Joseph brought more beer and while they drank Conrad met Steiner's eyes. He raised his glass a little and winked over the rim. Franz gave him a fleeting answering smile.

Chapter 16

While the card game progressed Stephanie endured a little hell of her own making. She was trapped in Niel's bedroom. When Conrad took Niel downstairs she seized her opportunity to take the hat and coat as promised. In his closet the dust of the fallen plaster gritted under her shoes. She stared up at the jagged edges of plaster. So that was why he'd taken the knife. She hoped he would not break through before she could see Freya. Then she heard Sigmund bringing up the wood. If she left now she'd meet him in the hall. Panic seized her as she closed the door of the closet. If only she hadn't stopped to look at the ceiling. But Sigmund might leave the door open as he found it. The logs thumped on the floor, trembling she listened to the dull knocking sounds of him building the fire. So quiet the house, she heard the sputter of the matches when he struck them and the faint crackling of the kindling as it took fire. He must have stood for awhile to watch the blaze, then came the scrape of the damper chain and he walked to the door.

God, don't let him lock it. But the bolt grated across and she leaned against the wall feeling sick. Though her lips and forehead burned feverishly she shivered, not from fright but the consciousness of her own helplessness. From Niel's greatcoat came an odor of tobacco that made her think of her father. This is how he must have felt when his friends were struck down by one—a queer tramping sensation sending blood pounding to the top of his head, his eyes burning in their sockets. Only he was old, dying comes easier to the aged. With her it was different, she was young enough to believe that misery, however horrible, is temporary if one has enough physical strength to endure it, then forget. But could she forget when the time for forgetting came? If Niel Dana was shot, could she forget?

Now she had placed Conrad and Niel both in danger. Strange how the idea conceived by Franz in patriotic enthusiasm could become a dark sinister thing which was beginning to create an atmosphere of its own. Or was in strange-Perhaps his kind of patriotism was unhealthy, easy prey to ambition. Whatever it was it was changing. Simple, inanimate things about it now held a mysterious quality of remoteness. She felt dispossessed.

She thought, I'm unhappy, that's what is the matter with me. The very acknowledgement made her tired. She sat down on the floor, drew up her knees to lean on them, trying not to think what would happen if someone other than Conrad found her here. All the creaking night noises of the house came to her in the darkness, the complaining of the aged beams weary under the strain of endless years. The happiness was gone out of them too. She fell asleep there on the floor.

In the library the General was a little stupefied by his lack of luck. He felt ill at ease. There was a subtle change in the atmosphere he couldn't name. He felt it had to do with Franz. He was always sensitive when another personality threatened his security. But why should Franz suddenly become antagonistic. Though his mind could not grasp it, his senses told him it was so. It was there in the poise of his head, in his wit and sarcasm, in his incessant chatter. It seemed to him that Franz had been talking for hours and he felt foolish because his nerves were so frayed he let the Philadelphia, Nov. 4 (AP)—The navy's newest aircraft carrier, the USS Valley Forge, rode at anchor in the Delaware river today preparatory to embarking on its shake-down cruise.

Financed by a $76,000,000 war bond drive conducted here in 1945, the carrier was commissioned at the Philadelphia navy yard yesterday by admiral Dewitt C. Ramsey, vice chief of naval operations, who dedicated the 27,000-ton vessel to the "cause of peace."

conversation go beyond his direction so that he seemed to be the interloper in the company. And the game had not gone right. Dana was so far ahead he couldn't possibly lose. Steiner ran second and Conrad was barely ahead of himself. After what he had said it put him in such a silly light, he felt they were laughing at him. He was so furious his head ached, he hated them but particularly he hated Franz. Finally he let the conversation drop altogether and sat hunched in silence, faint purple mottlings on his cheeks. When Franz stopped talking the silence of the room was unbearable to mind. None of the others seemed to mind it. The American held his pipe between his teeth, his face gravely amused. If Franz wore no mask, had a pipe, his expression would be the same as the American's. He hated them for their identical likeness. There was something uncanny about it. Any way back in his mind he thought how useless it was to have one dead if the other was alive—if they were both dead! The violence of his thought brought him involuntarily to his feet, pushing his chair back. He wanted to appear nonchalant but knew he failed.

"It's getting late," he said emphatically, avoiding Conrad's eyes with guilty apprehension over what he'd been thinking Conrad rose slowly.

Then Franz said suddenly and brightly, "Well, Conrad, it looks like you'll have to shoot the General."

Von Beck faced him coldly, then as he turned away a low laugh broke from Niel. The purple mottlings on the General's cheeks became more pronounced. He gripped the edge of the table leaning toward Niel.

"You will be wise, Mr. Dana, not to strain this run of luck too far." Niel's half derisive look drove him back behind the barriers of his authority. He ordered Conrad to take Niel upstairs.

At the top of the staircase Niel said: "I'm not usually that lucky."

"There's always a turning point," Niel eyed him. "One of you cheated for me."

"Don't spurn your lady luck." He did not press the point but when Conrad left him alone he thought of it again—one of them had cheated. He wanted to believe it was Conrad but couldn't rid himself of the suspicion that Steiner was the one.

CAPS SET PACE IN HOCKEY RACE

(By The Associated Press)
 The Indianapolis Capitans continue to set a rapid pace in the western division of the American Hockey League, while in the eastern section New Haven and Hershey are tied for lead at 15 points apiece.
 The Caps stretched their unbeaten streak to eight games over the week-end and extended their pace-setting margin to three points over Cleveland by downing the Philadelphia Rockets and the Pittsburgh Hornets.

Following their 8-1 trouncing of the Rockets Saturday, the Caps outskated the Hornets 3-1 last night. Indianapolis piled up a 3-0 advantage before the Hornets garnered their lone marker in the third period.

Hershey Wins, Ties
 Hershey blanked the Providence Reds Saturday and battled the St. Louis Flyers to a 3-3 deadlock while New Haven beat both the Springfield Indians and Philadelphia.

After the Bears had been trailing 3-1, Paul Ronty and Mark Marquess whipped two scores into the Flyer cage in the third stanza yesterday to tie the game.

The Ramblers handed the Rockets their ninth loss in ten games last night by scoring a 5-3 triumph. New Haven broke a 2-2 tie in the second session and added two more markers in the last chapter to ice the decision.

In the remaining games last night, the Cleveland Barons fought the Buffalo Bisons to a 2-2 standstill and Providence nosed out Springfield 2-1.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
 New York, Nov. 4 (AP) — Before long the 13-man executive committee of the U. S. Golf association will buckle down to the task of picking the 1947 Walker cup team and in the meantime a lot of good amateur golfers must be wondering about their chances. . . . The basis of selection is golfing ability plus the ability "to be a good representative of the country," and with that much latitude the committee has grounds for including or omitting almost anyone. Bud Ward, for instance, wasn't among the last eight in the national amateur, and neither was muscles Stranahan, yet their all-season records were fine. But Fred Kammer, semi-finalist at Baltusrol, was just a week-end golfer the rest of the year.

SUGGESTIONS ARE FREE
 From this distance it seems logical that the U.S.G.A. should stage trials of some sort to pick the eight or ten men who'll play in England in May. . . . Amateur Golfers get too few chances for big-time competition unless they tackle the pros in open tournaments. Showings in the Southern, Pacific Northwest, Intercollegiate, Trans-Mississippi, Metropolitan and a few other tournaments are considered because they draw good fields, but they're not truly national. . . . Of course, there are plenty of arguments against tryouts, including the fact that they might lead to the development of "golfing bums." . . . But you should hear what a golfer calls himself when he flubs a shot. "Bum" is a kind word by comparison.

ANYWAY, THEY'RE FIGHTING

her brother, William, and family, Hamilton township, where she is improving steadily after an attack of neuritis which hospitalized her for some time during September.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Gentzler, Jr., are preparing to move from the home of his parents to their newly purchased property on Harrisburg street, formerly owned by Trinity Lutheran church and tenanted by the Harper J. Phillips family.

Mr. and Mrs. George Munnaugh, Harrisburg, were entertained during the past week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Stambaugh and Miss Minerva Trostle.

The building near here used for many years as Hartman's schoolhouse and closed by the county board of education last June, was sold at public auction on Saturday to the Upper Conecago congregation, Church of the Brethren, whose meeting house, known as Munnert's, adjoins the building. A furnace, installed at the schoolhouse within recent years, was sold for $26 to Stewart G. Walker, near New Oxford, while John Gable Myers, also of the New Oxford area, bought the coal supply for $19. Most of the furnishings of the school were removed for sale to the Seven Hundred schoolhouse, near New Oxford, where a similar sale took place the same day.
